BATTLE OPENED 48 YEARS AGO

The Battle of Gettysburg destined to be recorded in history as one of the greatest battles of the world, opened July 1, 1863. Today, the forty eighth anniversary, the event was apparently forgotten in town for from only three places in the central part was the American flag floated in special celebration of the day.

These were the residence of J. L. Schick, Esq., Baltimore street, where several tastefully arranged flags were displayed, the office of the Gettysburg National Park Commission where the flag used for special days was floated, and the Eagle Hotel, a large flag flying from the pole on top of the hotel.

On the battlefield all the observances carried flags, the first four days in July always being observed in this way in addition to several holidays during the year.

But while there was no outward demonstration and so little display to remind one of the anniversary of the battle it was the subject of conversation in many of the homes of town, especially in those homes where there were residents who remembered the stirring incidents which marked the opening of the three days' struggle.

Veterans and others talked again of the things which have made history and lived over July 1, 1863.

And while these older residents thought and talked of the events of forty eight years ago they looked forward to two years hence and the plans for the big semi-centennial celebration being planned. A meeting of the Fifth Anniversary of the Battle of Gettysburg Commission is expected in the near future at which more definite plans will be outlined for the big celebration.

Mrs. Mary Jane Orner, died at six o'clock Friday morning at her home in Idaville, aged 61 years, 10 months and 29 days.

Mrs. Orner was feeling as well as usual upon rising and went about doing her early morning's work until breakfast time, at which meal she ate heartily.

In the midst of the meal she rose from the table and fell over upon the floor. A doctor was at the front door at the time, but before he could reach Mrs. Orner's side, she had expired.

She leaves her husband, Andrew Orner, four daughters, one son, Mrs. Lottie Spertzel, Idaville; Mrs. Grace Tate, Idaville; Mrs. Rosie Nehinger, Steelton; Mrs. Sadie Toner, Mt. Holly; Charles Orner, York. She also leaves two sisters, and one brother, Mrs. Jacob Richwine, Hunter's Run; Miss Jessie L. Group, Idaville; William Group, Idaville. Twelve grandchildren also survive.

Funeral services Sunday morning at 10 o'clock in the Evangelical church. Rev. D. P. Schaeffer, officiating. Interment at Idaville.

TWO BASE BALL GAMES

The Has Beens defeated the Y. M. C. A. team on Friday evening by the score of 4 to 3. Gilbert and Allison were the battery for the victors and Hartzell and Oyler for the vanquished. Allison sustained a sprained ankle when he slid to second and doubled his leg under him to prevent spiking Oyler. Tate finished the game catching.

The Reaser furniture factory team won from the High School nine on Prep campus 7 to 6. The game was interesting and witnessed by an enthusiastic crowd.

EARLIER DATE FOR INSTITUTE

Adams County Teachers' Institute will be held in Brua Chapel this Year Two Weeks Earlier than for Several Years Past.

The annual Adams County Teachers' Institute will be held this year the week of November 20, two weeks earlier than during the past two years. The sessions will take place in Brua Chapel. Three years ago it was decided that it was not advisable to hold the institute Thanksgiving week, as had been the custom prior to that time, and it was accordingly placed the week preceding Thanksgiving. Various objections were found to this and for the past two years the week following Thanksgiving was used.

If this were to be followed this year it would place the institute on the week of December 4 which is thought too close to Christmas, especially in view of the holiday vacations of the borough schools, and the week of November 20 has accordingly been chosen.

County Superintendent H. Milton Roth is busy engaging attractions and instructors for this year's sessions. The evening entertainments will be unusually strong. Ex-Governor Robert E. Glenn, of North Carolina, has been engaged to deliver the lecture of the entertainment course. He is said to be one of the best known men on the lecture platform today and Prof. Roth feels fortunate in securing him.

The other evening entertainments will be the Commonwealth Male Quartet, who appeared at Institute two years ago and who were very well received; the Tyrolean Alpine Singers and Yodlers, a novel musical attraction; and the Goodfellows' Singers, one of the best entertainment companies which has yet appeared before an Adams County Teachers' Institute.

Superintendent Roth is in correspondence with a number of strong instructors for the day sessions but has closed definitely with only one Prof. Orson L. Warren, of Elmira, New York. Prof. Warren is connected with the School Department of the state of New York. Robert J. McDowell, of Pittsburg, has been engaged to lead the singing of the week. He is said to be one of the foremost men in his line.

TRACTION ENGINES ASSESSED

Traction engines in this county will be assessed next fall for taxation for county purposes, according to state legislation recently enacted. The bill which was passed by the legislature and approved and signed by the governor provides for the engines to be assessed at their cash value in the same manner as other personal property, including horses and cows, are at present assessed.

The act which will be enforced for the first time when the 1912 assessment is taken is as follows:

Be it enacted etc., That from and after the passage of this act, all traction engines shall be liable to taxation, and the same shall be assessed by the several assessors of the counties at their fair cash value, in the same manner as other articles of personal estate liable for taxation are assessed, according to the laws of the commonwealth.

FIRST UNION SERVICE

The Protestant churches of town will unite Sunday evening in the first union service of the summer months. It will be held in the United Brethren church at 7.30 and the sermon will be preached by the pastor, the Rev. G. W. Sherrick. This is the third year for the union evening services. They have proved very acceptable in other years and will, doubtless, be well attended during July and August of this summer.

MURDERER IS UNCONCERNED

Murderer of Sadie Mathna at Mont Alto now in Franklin County Jail Dances, Sings and is apparently without Care or Trouble.

One of the least concerned and apparently happiest and most care free men in the Franklin county jail is William Reed, charged with the murder of Sadie Mathna, at Mont Alto some weeks ago.

Such is the report from the officials of the jail, who cannot repress their feeling of amazement at the man's mood. At no time as far as any of the officials are aware has the man broken down or shown any fear of results on account of the murder.

When he is permitted to go into the corridors with the other prisoners for exercise he dances, sings, plays cards and generally deports himself as one whose mind is free of any care or worry and he does not show any shyness when visitors pass through the jail on visiting day and ask, "Which one is Reed?"

In fact, once when Reed was getting shaved and a visitor was being shown through and carelessly asked the question, "Which is Reed, who shot that woman?" Reed got up from his chair with latter over his face and turning said, "I am Reed," as if rather proud of the distinction.

The jail officials predict that Reed will be game and cool at his trial which will likely take place at the September term of court.

LEWIS E. KIRSSIN
BALTO., ST.

Time was when cows needed their horns for self protection, but under modern domestic conditions they are useless and often dangerous appendages. The best and easiest method of dehorning is by the application of some caustic potash to the germ of the bone when the calf is a few days old. After the horn has got a good start the job must be done by saw or clipper. Many a dairymen hesitates to dehorn his cows because of the harmful effect he thinks it will have in reducing their milk flow. However, this is likely to be overestimated. A test made at the Kansas Agricultural college in a herd of twelve cows with a view to determining the shrinkage as a result of dehorning showed that in the five days prior to the operation it gave 1,142.5 pounds of milk, while in the five days following it gave 1,100.7 pounds, or a total shrinkage of the twelve cows of 40.8 pounds. This amounts to sixty-nine one-hundredths of a pound of milk per cow each day, or about half a pint. On the fifth day after dehorning all except two of the cows were giving as much milk, and a few more than they did the day before their horns were removed.

HUMAN TORCH IN SLIDE FOR LIFE

Makes Way Down Burning Rope With Clothes Aflame.

Pittsburg, Pa., July 1.—Two hundred and fifty feet above the ground, suspended by a rope that was burning, and his clothes blazing from naphtha and carbon oil, Chris Sinkas, a stack painter, thirty-six years old, made his way down hand-under-hand to earth, while a crowd of men stood horrified at the Westinghouse Electrical and Manufacturing company's plant in East Pittsburg.

Sinkas held a rope in his left hand to regulate the speed of his descent, at the same time using his right hand in an effort to beat out the flames. When he reached the ground his clothing was almost entirely burned from his body; he was terribly burned about the right hand and arm, chest and face, and his left hand was raw and bleeding from being torn by the rope as he made the swift descent.

Sinkas was painting a smokestack built recently to a new addition to the power house. Before the tar is applied a mixture of carbon oil and naphtha is applied to the stack to cut off the rust. Before starting to work he lighted a cigarette, and tossed the lighted match, he supposed, to the ground. Instead the match dropped into a bucket of naphtha and oil. An instant later an explosion occurred, and Sinkas, aflame, made his sensational trip down the burning rope.

HARRISON TELLS OF SUGAR DEAL

Gave $10,000,000 For Concern Worth $5,000,000.

D. S. STETSON RAPS EARLE

Declares Man Who Criticized Roosevelt "Makes Him Tired" — Represented Trust in Deal.

Washington, July 1.—Charles Custis Harrison, former provost of the University of Pennsylvania, told the sugar trust probers that the sugar trust had given $10,000,000 in stock for the Franklin sugar refinery in Philadelphia.

The Franklin company, he said, was capitalized at just half the amount paid for it in stock by the trust.

Mr. Harrison is a stockholder in the American Sugar Refining company, and for many years was a partner of Theodore A. Havemeyer in the sugar business. He is an uncle of George H. Frazier, of the so-called trust.

David S. Stetson, also of Philadelphia, was another witness before the probers. He declared that he had conducted negotiations for the trust with Adolph Segal; asserted, despite Segal's denial, that Segal had told him he built the Pennsylvania sugar refinery to "force it on the sugar trust," and berated George H. Earle, of Philadelphia, so roundly that the chairman of the probers objected.

The testimony of Mr. Stetson was in rebuttal to that of Adolph Segal.

Mr. Segal testified that he had no recollection of Stetson, though the latter had told him recently that he had conferred with him in the Manufacturers' club at Philadelphia.

"I talked to Mr. Segal at the club at his instance regarding the sale of the Pennsylvania refinery to the American Sugar Refining company," said Stetson. Mr. Stetson said Mr. Segal told him how he happened to sell a Camden refinery to the American company.

Mr. Stetson said he wrote to Mr. Thomas that he thought Mr. Segal was "about busted and would sell," and estimated the cost of the refinery at between $1,800,000 and $2,000,000.

Philadelphia friends told him, he said, that the Real Estate Trust company was on the bonds of the Pennsylvania refinery and was in danger of going to the wall.

"This I kept within my own bosom," said the witness, who added that he reported all but this to Mr. Thomas. The witness said his letters to Mr. Thomas were forwarded to H. O. Havemeyer. He added that he declined Segal's offer to give him $5000 if he would sell the Pennsylvania refinery to Mr. Havemeyer.

"I made up my mind then," said Mr. Stetson, "if I couldn't make a good commission I'd block the game. I informed Mr. Thomas of the dangerous financial condition of Mr. Segal, and that if the American company would hold off they could get the Pennsylvania refinery for a song."

Witness said George H. Frazier, a director of the American company, advised him to send the correspondence to Mr. Thomas. Once Mr. Thomas sent an agent from Boston to get from him some correspondence he had failed to forward.

"Did Mr. Frazier ever say to you that if these letters should fall into the government's hands it might be evidence to establish conspiracy in restraint of trade?" asked Mr. Hardwick, chairman of the probers. "Mr. Frazier appeared very much excited, but I don't remember that he said anything like that."

Mr. Stetson said George H. Earle, Jr., was the only man who made anything out of the deal. "Earle," he added, "wouldn't do anything unless he was well paid for it. He makes me tired."

Mr. Stetson said he did not receive a cent for turning over the letters. "Mr. Frazier was not that kind of a man," he said. The letters he did not regard as incriminating and he "turned them over to help Mr. Thomas in his defense because he was my kinsman."

It was disclosed that Mr. Thomas now has not only the original letters, but also the letter press copies of the correspondence between the American Sugar Refining company and Stetson.

"Did you think these letters might aid the government's case against the officials of the American Sugar Refining company?" "No, I never thought of it that way. I only thought they would help Mr. Thomas."

Stetson took so many raps at Mr. Earle that Mr. Hardwick, the chairman, interposed.

"You ought not to criticize a witness who preceded you," said Mr. Hardwick. "Why not, when Earle was allowed to 'roast' Theodore Roosevelt?" asked Stetson. "I am a friend of Theodore Roosevelt and I don't like to hear him criticized."

"Earle is regarded as a seeker after the lime-light in Philadelphia," he added as a parting shot.

Thomas S. Fuller, counsel for the American company, informed the committee that Mr. Thomas, now under indictment, would be willing to place the correspondence before the committee. The letters, said Mr. Fuller, were wanted by Thomas only to aid in his defense and not that they might be supplied.

Feeling Strong Against Alleged Assailant of Girl.

Cumberland, Md., July 1.—Feeling is so high here as the result of the assault on Miss Marie Bradour, eighteen years old, the daughter of William Bradour, a wealthy farmer, living near Cumberland, who was dragged into the cellar of her home and attacked, that Company G, Maryland National Guard, is under arms at the armory, subject to the call of State's Attorney Robb.

The state's attorney, perceiving the ugly feeling, made the request of the governor that the militia be held in readiness in the event that an attempt should be made to storm the jail where Frank Holler, aged thirty years, a suspect, is now confined. Holler is a farm hand.

Unexpected Guests

The farmer and his wife were about to sit down to a cold supper when they saw some old friends driving towards the house.

The good wife was equal to the occasion—thanks to her New Perfection Oil Cook-stove.

She had it lit in a moment, and her guests hardly were seated on the porch before a hearty hot meal was ready for the table—sausages and eggs and long rashers of streaky bacon, and rolls just crisped in the oven and fresh coffee—and the hostess herself as cool and neat as if she had not been near the kitchen.

She never could have managed it with an old-fashioned range. The New Perfection is the quickest, most convenient and best cooker on the market.

MOVED THE CONGREGATION.

De Koven Did It One Way, the Church Organist Another.

It is said that once when Reginald de Koven was touring the country he found himself in the town of Dayton on Sunday. They told Mr. de Koven that an Episcopal church in the neighborhood had a superb organ. Accordingly he went to that church, ascended the organ loft and sat beside the organist during the morning's service.

"You seem to know something about music," said the organist in a condescending way. "I'll let you dismiss the congregation if you like."

"Why, yes," said Mr. de Koven; "I would like that very much."

Accordingly at the end of the recessional he changed places with the organist and began to play Mendelssohn's "Spring Song." He played beautifully. The Dayton people, enthralled by the wonderful music, refused to depart.

A HEAVY HAND WAS LAID ON HIS SHOULDER.

They sat in rapt enjoyment, and after the "Spring Song" was finished Mr. de Koven began something of Chopin's. Suddenly a heavy hand was laid on his shoulder and he was pushed off the music stool. "You can't dismiss a congregation," said the organist impatiently. "Watch and see how soon I'll get them out."

The organist was right. Half a dozen notes started the congregation toward the doors.—Argonaut.

Let Children Make Money.

Why not give the boys—yes, and the girls, too—a little spending money each? Let them have all they raise on it and you help them to dispose of their crop. This kind of treatment goes a long way toward content and happiness.

Live Stock Notes.

Nine times out of ten "slobbering" is caused by rough or sharp edges of the teeth irritating the sides of the mouth. Many horses after reaching fifteen years are bothered by their teeth.
An English remedy to prevent horses from gnawing mangers and feed troughs is to give the wood a coat of tar, put on with an old broom while hot. It is claimed that this is a sure cure for an annoying and destructive habit.

Boys and girls should be taught to milk the cows, separate the cream and churn. It is a great handicap to children to rear them ignorant of such necessary work around the home. Let them have care of the cows and teach them to treat the animals kindly.

The mysterious actions of a horse which whirrs and bites himself savagely are due undoubtedly to the presence of worms in unusual numbers. The rubbing of the tail is another symptom. A wise course of treatment is to give a pint of raw oil or four drams of aloes in a ball. After it has ceased to act give a vermifuge.

The milk house or milk room should be separate from the barn, so that no odors from the barn will penetrate it. It need not be expensive, but should be built so that sunlight and ventilation are not obstructed. It should be provided with plenty of cold water and also with some method of providing hot water or steam for cleaning the utensils. It should have smooth walls and ceilings, such as can easily be kept clean. The milk house should not be used as a general storeroom.

OLD-TIME REMEDY DARKENS THE HAIR

Gives Color, Lustre to Faded and Gray Hair—Dandruff Quickly Removed.

From time immemorial, sage and sulphur have been used for the hair and scalp. Almost everyone knows of the value of such a combination for darkening the hair, for curing dandruff and falling hair, and for making the hair grow.

In olden times the only way to get a hair tonic of this sort was to brew it in the home fireplace, a method which was troublesome and not always satisfactory. Nowadays almost every up-to-date druggist can supply his patrons with a ready-to-use product, skillfully compounded in perfectly equipped laboratories. The Wyeth Chemical Company of New York put up an ideal remedy of this sort called Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy, and authorize druggists to sell it under guarantee that the money will be refunded if it fails to do exactly as represented.

This preparation is offered to the public at fifty cents a bottle, and is recommended and sold by all druggists. For Sale by the People's Drug Store, Gettysburg, Pa.

HARD BLOW TO STEEL TRUST

Report Says Its Prime Object is to Kill Competition.

CONTROLS 75 PER CENT. OF ORE

Commissioner of Corporations Also Declares Much Water Has Been Eliminated From Company.

Washington, July 1.—Herbert Knox Smith, commissioner of corporations, sweeps aside the reasons advanced by officers of the United States Steel corporation for its creation and holds that it was called into being primarily for the purpose of restricting or preventing competition.

In his long heralded report on the so-called steel trust the commissioner charges further than the opportunity for reaping a huge promoter's profit was another consideration that led to the launching of this giant corporation.

Commissioner Smith finds after an investigation that has extended over several years that the steel corporation when it was organized in 1901 was "heavily overcapitalized."

The entire issue of $508,000,000 of the common stock, the commissioner declares, had no physical property back of it, and from one-fifth to two-fifths of the preferred stock was likewise unprotected by tangible assets.

"Even granting," says the commissioner, "that there may have been a considerable value in the intangible considerations, it is reasonably clear that at least the entire issue of common stock, except in so far as what may be termed merger value may be considered, represented nothing but 'water.'"

The commissioner finds that in the years that have elapsed since the steel corporation came into existence considerable of the "water" has been squeezed out through additional investments, made partly from earnings. The excess of capitalization over investment at the end of last year, as figured by Commissioner Smith, was $281,051,222, as compared with $729,046,817 of "water" in 1901.

The report is unsparring in its condemnation of the commission paid to the syndicate which underwrote the United States Steel corporation. This syndicate, he charges, got $62,500,000, of which one-fifth, $12,500,000, went to J. P. Morgan & Co. as syndicate managers.

The commissioner makes the startling statement that at least $150,000,000 of the steel corporation's stock, including $40,000,000 of the preferred stock, in 1901 went directly or indirectly for promotion or underwriting services. The enormous amount includes, of course, the old commissions allowed promoters of earlier combinations which were finally embraced within the United States Steel corporation.

During the ten years of its operation, the report says, the steel trust has paid average annual profits of 12 per cent on the money invested.

The bureau of corporations report clearly indicates that if there is trouble ahead for United States Steel because of the Sherman anti-trust law complications, it is likely to be on the score of the corporation's control of ore deposits and transportation facilities leading from the ore fields.

The commissioner charges that the steel corporation controls 75 per cent of the "lake ores," on which the present steel industry of the country is based, and that this advantage is materially enhanced by the corporation's grip upon the railroad situation. He looks askance at the Great Northern lease, apparently viewing it as a move to prevent independent operators from reaching this supply.

As regards the production of steel, the commissioner finds that the relative proportion of the business controlled by the trust has been gradually diminishing since its organization. The corporation, according to the government's figures, now controls only a little more than 50 per cent of the crude and finished steel production, as against 60 per cent in 1901.

Mexicans Burn Man at Stake.
Shawnee, Okla., July 1.—Robert Swazey, a Canadian, was burned at the stake by Mexican bandits near Fort Sumner, N. M., according to a letter received from Mrs. Emma Blingman, mother-in-law of the dead man. Swazey was killed because he refused to reveal the hiding place of a large amount of money that had been left in his care by a Mexican railroad that employed him, the letter said. Mrs. Blingman has advised the British government of the case.

M'NAMARA'S DEFENCE

Plan to Raise $500,000 From Labor Union Men.

Indianapolis, Ind., July 1.—Decisive action has been taken by officers of international and national labor unions who are meeting in Indianapolis to devise a plan to provide adequate defense for J. J. McNamara, charged with complicity in California dynamiting outrages.

A committee drew up plans and outlined the manner in which it is expected funds for the McNamara defense will be raised. The report of the committee was adopted unanimously by the conference.

It is understood that the plan proposed by the committee provides for a contribution of at least 25 cents from every union man in the country. This would result in at least $500,000 being raised within the next two months to meet all expenses incident to the McNamara trial for a year, if it lasts that long. The conference members were of the opinion, it is said, that large individual contributions would be obtained, making the total fund nearly $750,000.

It was asserted in the conference, according to reports, that Clarence Darrow, of Chicago, who has been retained with six others for the defense of McNamara, would receive $50,000 as a retaining fee.

STEEL COMPANY PAYS $40,000 PENALTY

Bethlehem Concern Accepted
Rebates From Railroads.

Philadelphia, July 1.—Convicted on Jan. 4 last in the United States district court in this city for receiving demurrage rebates from the Philadelphia & Reading and Lehigh Valley railroads, the Bethlehem Steel company paid over a fine of $40,000 imposed at the time of the conviction by United States Judge Holland.

The $40,000 was paid by a check made payable to J. Whitaker Thompson, United States district attorney, and sent to that official by John G. Johnson, principal attorney of the Bethlehem Steel company in its fight against the government's suit.

The two railroads were convicted at the same time and under the same act for granting demurrage rebates to the Bethlehem Steel company, and the presumption of the federal authorities is that they, too, will abandon the intention of appeal and pay over the fines imposed. They were $40,000 in each case.

The action brought against the Bethlehem company and the two railroads was the first suit of the kind ever brought under the Elkins interstate commerce law as amended in 1906. The law was originally passed in 1903, but it did not apply at that time to the granting and receiving of demurrage rebates.

Jail Sentence For Banker.

New York, July 1.—Joseph B. Reichmann, formerly president of the Carnegie Trust company, was sentenced by Justice Vernon M. Davis, sitting on the criminal branch of the supreme court, to serve four and one-half months in the penitentiary for making a false report to the state banking department of the condition of the trust company at the close of business on Aug. 31 last.

600,000 Acres For Settlers.

Washington, July 1.—Approximately 600,000 acres of land have been opened to settlers under the registration plan through a proclamation signed by President Taft, 150,000 acres being within the Fort Berthold Indian reservation of North Dakota and 450,000 in the Pine Ridge and Rosebud Indian reservations in South Dakota.

BOMB THROWS MADRID IN PANIC

Sixty Injured in Crash Following Explosion.

THE AUTHORITIES ALARMED

Great Eucharist Parade Was Marked
With Disorder—Shots Exchanged In Street Fighting In Barcelona.

Madrid, July 1.—The government censor stopped all news dispatches filed with the telegraph companies which described disorders in connection with the great Eucharist procession.

It is estimated that sixty persons received more or less severe bruises in a street panic following the explosion of a bomb in Calle Bordadores, near the corner of Calle Mayor, at the moment that the parade was passing through the latter thoroughfare.

No one was injured directly by the bomb, but the crowds massed on the sidewalk, who had read the predictions of trouble in the morning editions of the Republican papers, cried out in alarm and started to run from the direction of the explosion.

In the resulting crush women fainted and, sinking to the pavement, were trod upon. The police acted energetically and eventually restored order and the procession moved on.

It is estimated that 50,000 people, including 10,000 working men and several thousand clergymen, took part in the parade which brought to a close the Catholic congress. After passing through the principal streets from St. Jerome's church, the paraders halted at the royal palace, where in the presence of King Alfonso and Queen Victoria, the benediction was pronounced by Cardinal Aguirre.

The organizers of the demonstration had warned those who participated to march in silence, lest they provoke hostile demonstration on the part of the Republicans and anti-Clericals who looked on.

The press unites in deploring the bomb incident and felicitates the paraders and the anti-Clericals on their correct attitude in preventing conflicts.

The garrison at Barcelona was held in the barracks as a result of a violent street encounter between the Carlists and Republicans. The trouble started when the grinder of a hand organ played the "Marsellaise" in front of the Carlist club.

Shots were exchanged and one Republican was seriously wounded.

ROB CORONATION VISITORS

Gems Worth $92,000 Stolen From Women In London.

London, July 1.—It has become known that Mrs. Charles B. Kitchen, of Denver, Colo., who is staying at the Metropolitan hotel, was robbed of a pearl and diamond corsage ornament at the gala opera performance in Covent Garden.

The jewel was worth $12,000. This, coupled with another loss of a string of pearls worth $30,000, convinces the police that expert thieves penetrated the opera audience and worked during the excitement of the singing of the national anthem.

Mrs. Kitchen is certain her gems were taken before she left the opera, and her maid declares the brooch was fastened securely before her mistress started for Covent Garden.

The ornament consisted of eight large diamonds and many pearls. The chief value of the brooch lay in the great size of the diamonds, two of them being ten carat stones.

TAFT OFF FOR BEVERLY

Four Regiments to Leave Border, But Others Remain All Summer.

Washington, July 1.—After a talk with Secretary of War Stimson and Major General Wood, chief of staff of the army, President Taft authorized the withdrawal of four regiments from the maneuver division now at San Antonio, Tex.

The four regiments will be withdrawn in the next thirty days. Several regiments will be left in Texas, perhaps all summer.

Federal Surplus Put at $33,000,000.

Washington, July 1.—Revised estimates indicate that the closing of the fiscal year 1911 will find the federal treasury showing a surplus of approximately $33,000,000 on all ordinary accounts. Receipts from Panama canal bond sales indicate that there will be no total deficit on account of canal operation.

Austrian Rioters Injure 200.

Vienna, Austria, July 1.—Two hundred persons were wounded in election rioting at Kalnz, Eastern Galicia. It was necessary to call out the troops to put an end to the fighting. Opposing mobs burned farm buildings, cut telegraph wires and damaged railway bridges.

49 Autos Stolen In Chicago In June.

eyelet embroidery and inset with simple motifs in cluny lace. Any other coarse lace would do as well, and any other embroidered design would serve the purpose. Underneath it is a good plan to protect the porch or lawn pillow with some stout material that can be removed and cleaned, for in spite of the outer cover the pillow is likely to become soiled, and there is always the chance that the rains or dews may get at it. If there were a waterproof cover inside the ornamental one the pillow's usefulness would be immensely increased.

Announcing Engagements.

One of the latest fads, which, however, has as yet not become the fashion, but which has been used by a few fashionable people, is to announce an engagement by sending out cards on which are engraved the girl's and the man's name and beneath them the word "Betrothed."

HINTS FOR THE BUSY HOUSEWIFE

Clockwork Device For Stirring the Saucepan.

There are some viands which the cook is compelled to prepare frequently ly which must be stirred constantly while they are on the stove or else they will burn. This is particularly true of some cereals, and the temptation is strong on the part of the cook to divide her attention with other articles also in the course of preparation, with the result that one or the other often suffers.

The automatic stirring saucepan is a new invention which is likely to meet with great popularity. A rod fitted with transverse blades runs through the center of the saucepan and is fastened to a clockwork attachment on the lid of the pan. When the spring is wound up the rod moves around and the two blades agitate the contents of the saucepan far more effectively than an ordinary spoon would.

Homemade Soap.

Take two boxes of lye and five gallons of water, nine pounds of grease and a half pound each of rosin and borax. Dissolve the lye in the water, add the rosin broken fine and boil until dissolved, stirring well; then add the grease and borax and boil two hours or until the grease is taken up and becomes soapy. If the grease is not salty put half a tumbler, if not a full tumbler, of salt dissolved in half a gallon of warm water and stir in.

Continuous boiling half an hour longer. Boak a tub in cold water, then put in the soap and let stand till cold. Cut out and put in a dry, cool place to dry.

To Boil a Ham.

Scrub the ham thoroughly, put into a good sized receptacle, cover with cold water and close the dish securely to keep in the steam. Heat slowly to the boiling point. After boiling about five minutes draw the dish to a cooler part of the range and let the ham cook at a gentle simmer until it is tender. It will take six hours or more. Remove the ham to a baking pan. Cut the skin around the shank in points and peel off the skin below the points. Dredge the surface from which the skin has been taken with fine cracker or bread crumbs and set the ham in the oven to brown the crumbs.

There are all too many chaps who haven't time to "monkey or fuss" testing seed corn who stupidly spend hours and even days later in the season cultivating bare ground in fields which have half or a third of a stand because the seed used wasn't any good. And it is often these same fellows who blame the weather or the party in power or their bad luck because they don't get ahead in the world.

Tomato Marmalade.
Scald and pare four quarts of ripe tomatoes. Cut two lemons in halves lengthwise and then slice very thin. Seed one cupful of raisins. Weigh out four pounds (eight cupfuls) of sugar, granulated, and put all the ingredients into a preserving kettle in layers. Heat slowly to the boiling point, then simmer until the mixture is of the consistency of marmalade. No one flavor should be recognizable. Seal while hot. This makes five pints.

Olea Soup.
One can of olives, three cups of milk, two cups of white stock or even water. Heat, strain and season with plenty of butter, pepper and salt. Serve with toasted crackers. This is one of the quickest and nicest soups on the emergency shelf, and it is too little known.

A MEDIEVAL LOVE AFFAIR

By MARGARET L. BLISS

Copyright by American Press Association, 1911.

One morning some three centuries ago, when Florence, Italy, ruled by Duke Cosimo de Medici, was divided among a number of powerful families, the Duchess Eleonora, attended by courtiers, was driven from the Pitti palace across the bridge called the Ponte Vecchio, spanning the river Arno, into the main part of the city. Beside the duchess sat a young girl noted especially for her fair complexion and golden hair. From an upper window overlooking the bridge a young man looked down on the cavalcade. About stood a crowd of persons dividing their glances between the young man and the young girl beside the duchess. His eyes were riveted on her, while she glanced up at him. They were known to be lovers, all Florence sympathized with them, and the crowd had collected to observe this lovers' look that passed between them.

The girl was Maddalena, the daughter of Bernardo Vettori, surnamed "the light haired," and it was from him that his daughter inherited her locks of gold as well as an immense fortune. The mother of Maddalena when widowed married Pietro Salviati and, in order to keep her fortune in the family, the stepfather betrothed her when still a child to his son by a former marriage. But this young man was killed in battle.

When Maddalena came to a marriageable age a love affair came about between her and Lodovico Capponi, who owned a villa in the country adjoining one of her own. It was a grand passion on both sides, and the theme was fanned by opposition. Maddalena's stepfather, still bent on keeping his fortune in his own family, persuaded Duke Cosimo to forbid the marriage. Despite her own, her mother's and her lover's protests and entreaties the girl was placed in a convent.

Lodovico was a fiery young man, and it was hoped by the stepfather that he would commit some act of violence which would afford an excuse to banish him, lock him up or otherwise dispose of him. But the lover displayed more self control than had been expected and refused to give his enemy the coveted opportunity.

Maddalena's mother told the story of her daughter's love and misfortunes to the duchess and succeeded in interesting her. The affair was known to all Florentines, who were a poetic and artistic people easily moved by a story of love. Moreover, they feared that if the duke was able to prevent this marriage he would prevent others. Therefore, though all the power to keep the lovers apart was on one side, all the sympathy was on the other.

The duchess finally succeeded in persuading her husband to permit her to invite Maddalena to visit her for a few days at the palace. Instead of days she remained months. But the struggle to compel her to resign her lover was not given up. Indeed, her invitation came in order to unite her with another suitor. By the duke's order Lodovico was never mentioned except in contempt, while Sigismondo di Rossi, a favorite of the duke, was always spoken of with the highest praise.

Lodovico, not being permitted to visit the girl he loved, rented a house overlooking the Ponte Vecchio, from which he could look down upon her and receive her return glance whenever she crossed the bridge with the duchess.

It was one of these occasions that has been described at the opening of this story, a scene that would not likely have happened anywhere except in the city of the medieval Italian poets and painters whose names and works are part even of the present age. The bridge that Maddalena crossed stands today, traversed daily by thousands of Florentines and tourists.

Perhaps no incident in the history of Florence can so well express the difference between that age, that people and this. Fancy a crowd at the entrance of a park in an American city, Washington for instance, waiting to see an heirless driven out with the president's wife, her lover standing at the window of a house he has hired for the express purpose of seeing his ladylove go by. That age has passed, but romance still exists and is as deep set in human nature as ever. While the people of that day were interested in individual cases, we now find its expression in "best sellers." Have we not in this respect degenerated?

Whether it was that the duke, who was only interested in Salviati's plans through friendship for him, found that he was playing a losing game for himself, becoming unpopular, or whether he met an undercurrent of opposition from those prominent families who feared his power to interfere in their own affairs, is not recorded, but in any event his opposition suddenly collapsed. One morning at daylight an old woman appeared at Lodovico's bedside and awakened him with some astonishing and delightful news. She bore a message from the duchess. Lodovico was summoned to the palace to take Maddalena away with him and prepare for an immediate marriage.

The lover bounded out of bed and began the preparations at once, going as soon as he was dressed to the palace. All Florence was interested in the wedding, which took place at the house from which the lover had so often looked down on his mistress, but since it was not large enough the piazza on which it stood was inclosed for a ballroom.
